

<head> web conference

Release date October 6, 2008.

Call for two £5K sponsors for the London hub

Executive summary

<head> is an interactive online web conference with over 50 great speakers and multiple tracks of content spanning three days. Attendees can experience the conference from anywhere with a good Internet connection and a web browser with the Adobe Flash Player.

The <head> conference also has physical real-world local conference hubs in several locations globally, including the UK, Belgium, and the United States.

This is a call for two £5K (exc. VAT) sponsorship positions to sponsor the food and entertainment costs at the capital hub in London.

The deadline for application as a sponsor is Friday, October 17th. Interested parties should contact us immediately to register their interest.

Hub details at a glance

- Speakers presenting in-person at the hub include, among others, Tim O'Reilly (founder/CEO of O'Reilly Media), Richard Moross (founder/CEO of moo.com), Gavin Starks (founder/CEO of AMEE), Paul Boag (Boagworld podcast), and Jeremy Keith of ClearLeft.
- 160 attendees will be present during the conference
- Current sponsors for the hub are Yahoo! Developer Network and O'Reilly Media.

Sponsorship benefits

London conference hub sponsors get the following benefits:

- Your own sponsors page on the Singularity web site.
- Stand and/or other presence at the London hub.
- Recognition on the web site as a venue sponsor.
- 5 free tickets to attend the London hub.

Further information and contact details

Find out more about the conference at <http://www.headconference.com>

To express your interest, please contact Aral Balkan during working hours (GMT) at +44 779 5551278 (011 44 7795551278 when dialing from the United States) or email aral@headconference.com. You can also send us a message on Twitter to @headconference.